Editorial

Dear Readers in the United States

Exciting stuff happened and/or is going to happen in the United States: The Brader exhibition will open on December 4 (page 2). Swiss Clubs were very active, be it Schwingen (p. 3,) gardening and watching soccer (p. 4.) A solar powered trimaran sailed down the Mississippi from Chicago to Baton Rouge (p. 6,) the Swiss Center in New Glarus was honored (p. 7,) a new Consul General visited Oklahoma (p. 7) and two new Honorary Consuls were presented (p. 8 and 10.) For the fourth time Los Angeles celebrated a show of short films entitled "Short Films, Long Night". My husband and I were among the singers and spectators at the Swiss Singing and Yodeling Festival in Tacoma (p. 9) where we had a great time. We drove up by train – another experience! The last three pages are entirely dedicated to the 1st of August celebrations under the heading: "Mostly Red, White and Bratwurst!" I hope you have fun reading these interesting articles. See you next year!

Florida

Swiss American Club of SW Florida

Our members have had a very busy schedule over the past few months. The annual picnic in June drew a sizeable crowd. While everybody was socializing, a group of Marine recruits was having a pre-boot camp smell of cooking wafted around. Fortunately the Marine recruit workout was soon over and the tired boys and girls didn't have to smell all the good eats!

Everybody knows that the Swiss enjoy a good evening of "jassen." In July the club organized a dinner at a local restaurant, followed by card games. Since not everybody joined in the traditional game, some ladies played "UNO" and everybody seemed to have a great time.

Friday, September 5, was a beautiful day for a visit to the Conservancy of Southwest Florida in Naples. Twenty members and two guests gathered at the entrance. The interesting journey began with a 45-minute ride on an electric boat down the estuary and up a ways on the Gordon River (the major tributary to Naples Bay). The guide explained the function of the Mangrove and their importance to the ecosystem of the river. Protected by law, these plants can only be trimmed with a special permit and under the supervision of a trained specialist. The estuary also provides shelter for the Florida manatees, particularly when the ocean gets too cold for them to survive.

The non-jassers playing UNO

After the boat ride and a sandwich lunch, a conservancy staff member gave a presentation on invasive species. It is amazing how many non-native fish, plants, snakes and lizards have found their way here. They threaten their native "cousins" by encroaching on their territory and their food. Everybody has heard of the Burmese Python that has taken up residence in the Florida Everglades. Following the presentation there was plenty of time to explore the exhibits. This was indeed a very educational day!

The flurry of activity around the Brader exhibit intensifies. The opening of the exhibit, "The Legacy of Ferdinand A. Brader," occurs on December 4 in Canton, OH. It will be shown until March 15, 2014. We will exhibit over 20 drawings and much preparation work is now happening.

Brian Lisik of the Farm and Dairy wrote a wonderful piece "Finding Ferdinand Brader." It starts with "William Tanner was Ferdinand Brader's best friend. And now William Tanner was dead." Read the full article here: <http://www.farmanddairy.com/top-stories/finding-ferdinand-brader/209915.html>.

Aelpler Gruppe Swiss Club - Fall Schwingfest

The Aelpler Gruppe Swiss Club conducted the final Schwingfest of the 2014 West Coast Schwingfeste and their Fall Schwingfest on August 30 under beautiful weather. The kids had fun competing in Steinstossen between the afternoon wrestling rounds. Frank Kaech and Andrew Betschart were called up to wrestle in the Schlussgang. After a very active and interesting round Frank Kaech was able to put Andrew Betschart on his back in the 6th minute of the 10 minute announced Schlussgang and thus came from behind to win the Aelpler Gruppe Fall Schwingfest and his 4th Club Schwingfest win after winning the SJVSC Fall

100-year celebration of Hermann Park in Houston, donated by a Swiss.

The Swiss American Society in Houston helped celebrate the Swiss philanthropist and businessman at Houston's Hermann Park. Organized by Vice President Lilian Tade, a group of Swiss garden enthusiasts ventured to the park on a sunny Saturday morning in May to participate in planting some Texas native flowers and grasses. It was a cheerful time, and everyone was satisfied with the outcome, and the contribution. George H. Hermann was born in 1843 in Houston Texas, where his parents had settled after emigrating in the early 19 century from Davos, Switzerland. He became very wealthy through the discovery of oil in Humble, Texas in 1903 as well as through his holdings in real estate and cattle ranching. Since he never married, and had no descendants, Hermann left his entire estate to the city of Houston. This includes the land where

CalypSol

Solar powered canoe trip down the Mississippi, from Chicago to Baton Rouge

On June 11, 2014, the CalypSol crew reached Baton Rouge, Louisiana at 3:25pm, thus completing 1'450 miles to successfully become the first solar powered canoe voyage down the Mississippi. This was the third and longest segment of the trip, which started in Chicago in 2012 and ended up at the Mud Island Marina in Memphis, TN in July 2013.

Ray Christe in the back and Larry Kozak make the inaugural ride on their CalypSol Trimaran on Crystal Lake, IL

Two long time engineers founded the CalypSol Group: Raymond Christe of Crystal Lake, IL, and Larry Kozak of Algonquin. Friends for decades, these two men are realizing a long-held dream, born out in this special project. Ray is a creative and innovative electrical engineer from Switzerland. The two-passenger canoe is unusual in that it is a high tech "solar" powered 22-foot Trimaran custom built, with two outriggers for supporting the solar panels and providing high stability for the canoe and its passengers. They chose to put their craft to the test using the same waterway traveled by Joliet and Marquette in their birch bark canoes some 340 years ago. Joliet and Marquette were the first Europeans to follow the course of the river and much of it was mapped out by the French-Canadian explorer Joliet. Because of the early French fur trappers traveling from the upper Midwest to New Orleans to sell their furs, the route has come to be referred to as the French Waterway Corridor.

For the third segment, Raymond Christe and Jean-Claude Barras launched their craft at the Mud Island Marina in Memphis in May 26. On the third day, torrential rains forced the determined navigators to weather out the storms ashore in Helena, AR. This gave them a chance to talk with the very hospitable and friendly local folk and to be interviewed on the Radio Show of legendary Sonny Payne [KFFA AM 1360].

The CalypSol sharing the Mississippi River with the "American Queen" near Helena, AR

They resumed their trip on Saturday May 31 braving the turbulent waters of the Mississippi and sleeping on the beautiful sand banks and shoreline wilderness that stretch for hundreds of miles. Sunsets and sunrises were spectacular. With the River level dropping at a rate of a foot per day, once anchored for the night, the CalypSol had to be periodically pushed away from the bank back into the water. This was mandatory to prevent finding the craft resting high and dry in the morning with the formidable task of pulling and pushing the 450 - pound craft back into the water. Some days, the barge traffic was low. To the CalypSol crew it felt like the entire Mississippi belonged only to them. On other days it was more stressful, dealing with the barges, predicting their movement and avoiding the high waves produced by the 10,000 horsepower thrust of some tugboats. It was not uncommon to see tugboats pushing strings of barges up to five wide and nine long.

With the absence of light contamination from cities, most of the nights were filled with stars, but also with strange sounds from deer, wild boars, coyotes, frogs and bobcats. Often, in the middle of the night, some animal could be heard in the campsite or not far away giving off a shrill cry. The songs of multiple bird species would wake up the crew every morning announcing the new day on the river. A typical day would start at 6:00am with breakfast, a light lunch was taken on the water, and about 4:30pm the crew would start looking for a place to moor for the night. Navigation distance varied from 30 to 50 nautical miles per day. The small Torqeedo outboard motor of the CalypSol functioned perfectly and reliably during the entire voyage. A reception took place at the Swiss Consulate in New Orleans, LA, celebrating the 1,450 miles travelled from Chicago, IL to Baton Rouge, LA, on the first solar powered Trimaran canoe. The crew returned safely, with CalypSol, to Crystal Lake, IL on Sunday June 15.

Wisconsin Swiss Center News

Wisconsin's State Archivist Matt Blessing presented Beth Zurbuchen, President of the Swiss Center, with the 2014 Governor's Award for Archival Achievement during Swiss National Day Volksfest celebrations in New Glarus, WI. The Swiss Center's nomination was chosen above others due to our work developing a significant research collection on Swiss-American heritage.

The Wisconsin Historical Society states "The Archival Achievement Award recognizes a historical records repository's outstanding work in preserving and providing access to Wisconsin's historical records." Read more here: <http://www.wisconsinhistory.org>.

I am deeply honored that archival experts recognized the work we've done to preserve our story and that our Donald G. Tritt Archive and Library is a valuable resource providing a deeper understanding of heritage through preserved and accessible records that document our diverse and rich history.

Unique and Rare Materials at the Tritt Archives and Library

Oklahoma New Consul General Visits

Andreas Maager, the new Consul General of Switzerland in Atlanta, made his first visit to the State of Oklahoma in early May of this year. He was able to spend five days in both Oklahoma City and Tulsa area visiting Government officials, educational representatives, and many others. While at the Capital, CG Maager had the opportunity to meet with the Oklahoma Governor, Mary Fallin, as well as talk to key members of legislature and business. He learned much about the State of Oklahoma, its strengths and competitive advantages, while at the same time promoting awareness and interest about our home country Switzerland.

The other institution, the School of Culinary Arts, educates students to become nationally competitive chefs and food service managers and is under the leadership of Swiss born Chef René Jungo, who has earned the distinction of Certified Executive Chef from the American Culinary Federation.

In conclusion, various members of the Swiss Club of Oklahoma joined Andreas Maager for an informal reception at the home of Anna and André Siegenthaler, the Swiss Club President, where he was able to enjoy engaged discussions with Swiss people of many generations living in Oklahoma and nearby Arkansas.

Andreas Maager was very appreciative of the diversified program that was offered to him during his visit to Oklahoma. We would like to thank the Consul General for having spent time with the Swiss Colony in Oklahoma.

New address of the Consulate General of Switzerland in Los Angeles

The Swiss network of representations is a key instrument to implement our external relations strategy and reflects the principles of universality, coherence and efficiency. Consequently it is constantly adapted to a changing international context, this is however linked to budget constraints like other Western European nations are also facing. This situation encouraged some Ministries of foreign affairs to share their diplomatic offices with other countries' official representations abroad. This new way of cooperation between countries of similar size as Switzerland allows a country to maintain an official presence in places where it does not have enough resources to have a regular Embassy or Consulate General on its own. This is why an agreement between Austria and Switzerland has been reached according to which the Consulate General of Austria and the Consulate General of Switzerland in Los Angeles will share the same premises as of September 1st 2014. The new address reads therefore as follows:

Los Angeles Swiss Film Festival
 "Short Films, Long Night"

I was pleased to conclude the first year of my tenure in the City of Angels by establishing the fourth season of Short Films, Long Night, on September 7, extending again the Consulate General's commitment to short films. I did it with the support of an organization committee which included Susanne Wildhaber, my invaluable assistant, members of the Swiss creative society: Helmuth and Alan Bell, Roman Wyden, Silvia Spross and Angelenos like Dennis Fredricks, Maggie Soboil, Tammy Duffy and volunteers. They spared no effort to bring short movies of Swiss essence to the light of historic Hollywood. The logo shining over this year's event illustrates their spirited commitment. My gratitude also extends to our generous sponsors: Nespresso - who, in offering its nectars, made sure the audience would not fall asleep; Cynetyt Hollywood, Fredricks and von der Horst Attorneys at Law, the United Swiss Societies of Southern California, JRT International Inc., Switzerland Tourism, Swiss Quality Smile, Final Draft, Pr1marycolor, Hollywood Blonde and Chalet Edelweiss. Since 2011, this Festival has been highlighting Swiss innovation and culture by presenting unique short films to historic Hollywood. The Festival is committed to promoting the works of Swiss filmmakers and artists. It is a platform to celebrate quality Swiss-made or Swiss-inspired short films of all genres and styles, fostering relationships with the entertainment industry and its audiences.

Around 300 people enjoyed this year's events that included fourteen short films, made from the art of telling a story in a concise and compelling way. And the winners were: The 100% Swiss Award (movies made in Switzerland) went to "The Finger" by Maliki Pelliccioli, for "Here and There" (movies made in LA or elsewhere abroad) the Award went to "Imposter" by Elie Chapuis. "Ruprecht", a LA comedy by Hollywood based Swiss director Yangzom Brauen, received the Audience Award. I wish to thank the audience for supporting Swiss filmmakers and helping to place Switzerland on the map of the entertainment capital. We are now looking forward to celebrating next year, the 5th chapter of an event, which matured to the Los Angeles Swiss Film Festival, whose searching lights are seeking Swiss stars.

Tacoma Sangerfest

We had four wonderful days, spent singing, yodeling, eating, drinking and enjoying each other. The weather-gods had arranged nothing but sunshine for us. Tacoma showed itself off from the best side. The Mannerchor Edelweiss of the Swiss Sportmen's Club of Tacoma were the perfect hosts. Now they can rest on their laurels and we keep great memories. Due to lack of space, I can only publish a limited amount of pictures. If you want to see more, visit the Harmonies web-site at: <http://www.swissharmonie.com> and click on "Performances".

Swiss Echoes Enjoy Sangerfest

The San Joaquin Valley Swiss Echoes were proud to participate in the United Swiss Singing Societies of the Pacific Coast 2014 Sangerfest in Tacoma, Washington on July 10 – 13th. Members had a nice time visiting with friends from previous Sangerfests as well as making new friends from the U.S., Canada, and Switzerland. The schedule kept us busy with practices, a grand concert, meals, dances, and various performances. We enjoyed seeing the beautiful grounds of the Swiss Park at Bonney Lake on the third day of the festival. On the final day Heidi Betschart, the next Sangerfest President, received the Sangerfest flag, since we will be hosting the next Sangerfest in Ripon and Modesto in 2017! Practices are 7:00 on Tuesday evenings. Contact president Annabel Murata (209) 668-2760 or secretary Margaret Higgins (209) 524-0642 if you are interested in joining our group. We want to start a children's Swiss choir. If you know any young folks who might want to participate, contact us at the numbers above.

First of August Celebrations in the United States - Mostly Red, White and Bratwurst!

Colorado

Perfect weather greeted the guests to the 1st of August celebration that was held on Sunday, August 3rd in Morrison, Colorado. Members of the Swiss-American Friendship Society and the Swiss Society of Denver attended this celebration. In addition we had many walk ups that had heard about the celebration through various media channels. While the festival had been in the planning stages for months, it took a small band of workers to bring this one to a success. From the cooks that fixed the traditional menu of sausage, potato salad, sauerkraut and barley soup, to the people that decorated the pavilion with canton flags and red & white tablecloths, the 200 people in attendance enjoyed all these labors of love. A 4-piece band entertained throughout the afternoon

The traditional buffet during the 4-hour celebration. For the kids, a bouncy castle was set up to keep them occupied. For those who wanted to test their strength, there were 3 Unspunnen Stones for the kids, women and men to throw. Attendees were treated to some melodies on the Alpenhorn as well. Raffle prizes ranged from Swiss clothing & merchandise to gift certificates to an overnight stay at a 5 star hotel in downtown Denver. In addition we

Young musician! were honored to have the Consul General of Switzerland in Los Angeles, Mr. Jean-François Lichtenstern attending the picnic. After some kind words, he introduced Mr. Marcel Pitton as the new Honorary Consul. The event was capped off with delicious pastries from a local

Swiss Society Of Charlotte

Traditionally, the Red Fez Club on Lake Wylie was again the perfect location to celebrate our 1st

Roger Boschung giving the welcoming address of August National Holiday. Almost 120 people enjoyed the great weather this year, the grilled sausages (St. Galler Olma Bratwurst), Fleischkäse and all the trimmings from the salad bar, desserts and liquid refreshments for young and adults. The traditional lampion parade was held at dusk and young and old enjoyed a very peaceful sunset. A big "Thank You" goes to all the volunteers, board members for their help and an even bigger "Thank you very much" goes to the Consulate General of Switzerland in Atlanta, represented by Vice-Consul Ms. Andrea

Andrea Walter (Vice-Consul) and Gudrun. Both traveled from Atlanta to Charlotte

Walter. We really appreciated your support and all the 'goodies' for our event in Charlotte. For further information on upcoming events (Jass-Tournament, Annual Meeting and Santa Claus), visit us on our Website:

On the Beach in South West Florida

Swiss Club South West Florida The annual First of August celebration was another success. Members and guests gathered at a private beach and were greeted with a glass of white wine sponsored by the club. The President extended his welcome, and soon the Swiss President's speech was heard and the first verse of the Swiss National Anthem was sung. And then it was time to cook and eat the traditional foot-long Bratwurst, washed down with more wine, etc. Following the call of the club president, quite a few of the ladies had prepared baked goods which were enjoyed as dessert, together with a cup of hot coffee. Needless to say, it was another splendid rendition of Swiss independence done in the traditional way. The only thing missing were the bonfires!

California - Swiss Fair in Whittier

The Swiss Fair in Whittier, with which the Los Angeles Swiss community celebrated the Swiss National Day, was a shining example of keeping our warm heritage alive by sharing it with sunny California. I again wish to thank the United Swiss Societies of Southern California for organizing this event. I particularly think of its Chairperson Lilo, whose charming surname sounds like a Yodel note dancing over her last name: Holzer, full with a wooden fragrance illustrating the strength and warmth she used in organizing this patriotic event.

I wish you a pleasant autumn,
